About the Conference

The 146th NGAUS General Conference & Exhibition will bring together thousands of attendees from across the nation. Imagine your organization among them as you take part in THE National Guard event of the year! This highly anticipated conference allows members to gather and vote on top legislative priorities for NGAUS, share information, and celebrate the camaraderie of being National Guard and NGAUS members. Join us for a four-day event packed with keynote speakers, special events and access to the largest defense industry trade show of the National Guard.

Those who attend the conference include 4,000 attendees, and over 220 general officers who visit the exhibit hall seeking out the latest solutions to current requirements. With a combined strength of 440,000 personnel and 6,000+ reporting units, the Army National Guard represents 45% of the Army’s operating forces and the Air National Guard represents 35% of the Air Force’s capability.

Conference Attendance

Attendees include:

- NGAUS members representing all 54 States, Territories and the District of Columbia
- National Guard Bureau leadership
- Soldiers and airmen who identify shortfalls and general requirements for future procurement
- Representation from other Joint Services of the Defense Department

The Guard cannot show up to tomorrow’s fights with yesterday’s equipment.”

– Gen. Daniel R. Hokanson, the chief of the National Guard Bureau, referencing NGB’s 25-year modernization road map (January 2023)

“Every National Guard officer should attend a NGAUS conference at least once. Chances are, after your first, you’ll want to return again and again.”

– Maj. Gen. Janson “Durr” Boyles, the NGAUS chairman of the board
